Assembly

On the face, the transition is visible when changing the yarn. We need a white yarn Softy to make a pair stitches to make the transition invisible!

We mark the place for the eye, I immediately make the weight and sew the eyes. It is important to make a good tightening. We inject the needle at the bottom of the head, remove the needle in the place where the first eye will be, then again down the head and bring it out in the place where the second eye will be. Repeat several times and tighten well.

You can still make a tightening - highlight the muzzle. To do this, enter the needle at the bottom of the head, output near the first eye. We make a stitch to the second eye, along the edge of the muzzle, and bring out the needle at the bottom of the head. Repeat several times.

Embroider the nose and make a stitch down, pulling off the muzzle. It is important to tighten the stitch well so that the muzzle seems to be slightly divided into two halves.

Sew on the ears, sew the tail.

Break the thread.

We determine where the overalls have a face, and where the inside is. On the wrong side you need to knit 11 sbn, connecting the two sides of the overalls so that there is 17 sbn for each leg hole.

On the back we tie two sides with single crochet. We do at the end of 5 VP for buttons.
